Long ago, there lived in Ayodhya a great king called Dashratha.

Kaikay, his second wife caused him to banish Ram for forest from Ayodhya. The people of Ayodhya who had great affection for Sri Ram, felt that it was not at all fair that Ram should go to the forest and Bharat, his younger brother, should rule. But Ram did not protest against this decision. He was greatly devoted to his father and wanted to fulfil the promise given by him. He set about preparing for his journey to the forest when with Sita and Laxman, he left Ayodhya, the people followed him for some distance. They wept because they had to part from him.

After a while Bharat returned to Ayodhya from his uncle's kingdom.

The news of Ram's banishment came to him as a great shock. He refused to be crowned as a king. He said, "It will be unworthy of me to agree to be king." That will be against the Dharm of the race

14. Read the following passage carefully and answer the questions given below :

India is a land of fields, farms and villages. Bukhatir, the most remote and backward small village of our state, is awaking now.

But long ago there were three fools—Billu, Monu and Kadichand. They were friends by chance. These three fools reached a city. A big palace came to their sight whose towers' height was about fifty to sixty yards. They were perplexed to see the height of the tower and began to express their own folly.

Monu said, "How tall the kings were in ancient times who reached the top of the tower." Billu said, "You are a great fool, the kings were not so tall at that time. This tower was made by lying it on the earth first and then it was erected."

Third one said, "Both of you are big fools. It was a well, when it was pulled upside and it became a tower."

Monu said, "Perhaps urban people knew some magic."

Kadichand said, "Yes, you are right."

Once my father saw here a goldsmith throwing his gold into fire to get pure and shining and really after a while the gold came out of fire in its pure and shining form. But when my father used the same method to get pure and shining cotton, he got nothing but ashes.
